TRAINING | The University of Stellenbosch Business School and the ADR Group, Britain's oldest commercial mediation service provider, would be running ADR's internationally accredited mediation training courses in Johannesburg for the first time this month, the business school said yesterday. The five-day programme, to be presented from October 22-26, leads to full internationally recognised accredited mediator status. The programme has been run six times in the Western Cape and Durban over the past two years. Sue Blaine
